Tips

Building a Regimen

The simplest regimen is protect and repair. The morning regimen is designed to protect the skin with antioxidants, DNA repair enzymes, and sunscreen. And in the evening products are selected that can repair such as peptides, retinoids, and growth factors.

Have you considered what should be your last product applied each morning? Some experts believe it should be sunscreen, others say moisturizer. Luckily many sun protective products now have moisturizing and hydrating ingredients, making this conundrum a moot point. However, if you want or need more moisturization or hydration, consider a hyaluronic acid serum applied right before the sunscreen.

THE CASE FOR BUNDLES

Skincare Bundles

Skincare bundles are a not only a no-brainer for your patients but also for your business! The numbers you see for each skincare product category are the average number of units a patient will go through in 1 year if using their skincare consistently and as directed. We've seen great success with skincare incentives that involved words like bundles, stock up/subscribe and save, and even membership!
